Fireworks

I saw the fireworks in the sky. They were pink and red.

By Amelia Richmond

Te Marae

I went on the bus to the Marae. I made a kite.

By Charlotte Steele

Fireworks

I saw fireworks in the sky. When I held the sparklers I wrote my name.

By Mila Marsh

Meerkats

Meerkats like to dig a hole in the ground to sleep in. They like to eat bugs and worms.

By Chloe-Lee Koroheke

ROOM 1

I saw red and beautiful fireworks when I was at Aunty and Uncles. I was there yesterday and I watched a movie. I couldn't watch the movie, because I was enjoying the beautiful fireworks too much. I just loved it. They went boom, boom in the sky and pop, pop.

By Manaaki Winterburn

All about Spring... We see a lot of baby animals in the spring time. In spring the flowers pop up. As winter turns to spring what changes can you see and feel?

By Chelsie Howe

Maui and the Sun

The sun was going to fast. There was no time to get food. Maui and his brothers hid under the trees. The caught the sun and tied it up. Maui hit the sun with his jaw bone. The sun promised to slow down. Maui and his brothers were very happy.

By Nixon Solly

ROOM 2

I went to Kowhai Park with my Mum and Dad and my brother. First I went on the swing with my brother. Then I went on the slide. We went on different swings and different slides. I like the swings. Some slides were fast and some were slow. And I went on the merry-go round it make me dizzy.

By Lydia Kong

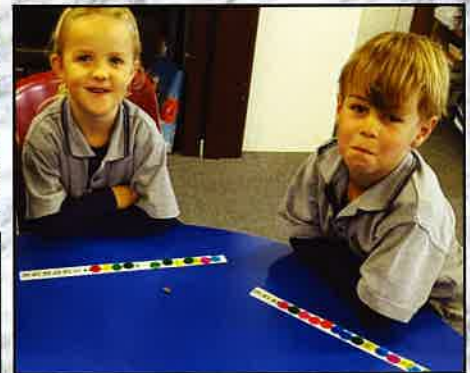

Bees are important because they make flowers grow. The Queen bee lives for a 100 years. The worker bees only live for 45 years. Bees make 100 trips a day. Bees can recognise colours to get to their hive. Some bees don't make honey through the winter. Bees collect pollen to live. When bees see new flowers they dance.

By Jayda Lawson

The fireworks look like its exploding flowers. Fireworks are like rainbows. Some fireworks look like fountains. Lots of fireworks go loop de loop. Not many fireworks went low. Lots of sparkling fireworks went high up to the night sky. Some fireworks are blue, yellow and pink. Fireworks sound like hissing cats. Fireworks look like sparkles getting thrown in the air.

By Luke Ander

Would you rather...

I would rather live in a tree house because I can hear the birds whistling. I would also like to be in a tree house because I can sleep well. It would be cool in a tree house because everything will be wood. I could have a pet squirrel and that would be cute. I could have a swing. I wouldn't live in a cave because it might have spiders and it would be dark inside.

By Grace Taylor

ROOM 3

Don't say you saw a bird, say you saw a hawk swooping for its prey. Don't say you smelt salt, say it smelt like the salty water in the moana. Don't say you felt sand, say you felt the soft sand in between your toes. Don't say you heard birds, say you heard seagulls squawking and fighting over their next meal. Don't say it tasted like sand, say it tasted like sand in my sandwich.

The Tear Thief

As the sun goes down, down; down below the horizon, the village children are getting ready for bed. The Tear Thief is hiding and listening with her sharp ears. The Tear Thief darted through the village until suddenly... She heard a horrible cry from a boy in the bath. It was loud and clear with strawberry shampoo stinging his eyes. The Tear Thief collects all types of tears. Naughty tears - glowing amber and scared tears - white like snow. The Tear Thief flew bright like a sun into the moon to scatter the tears from her tear sack. These tears are what create the glowing ring around the full moon.

By Bailey Barnett

During the holidays, I went to the pool with my Grandma. When I got there the pool was packed and I freaked out so much. I jumped in to the warm water. After a while I went onto the hydroslide and you won't believe it...when I got to the top of the stairs the whole floor was crowded with people! After that, I went back to the warm pool. It was so nice and the hydroslide water was cold not warm. After a very, very long while later I went on the hydro slide again and still it was crowded with people. After that I dried myself off and Grandma took me home. I felt so happy, it was such a good day and I can't wait to go back again soon!

ROOM 4

Red is boiling hot hot lava pouring gently from the volcano.
 Red berries full of sweet juice melting in my hot mouth.
 Hot hot red fire slowly warming my tiny toes.
 The smell of delicate beautiful red roses from the green bush.
 The fire crackling furiously as people panic.
 Red hearts are full of happiness, joy, beauty and love.
 Red smells like the spring sweet roses.
 There are lots of different reds like... red lava, red roses,
 Red pens and China's favourite colour is red.
 All those things are RED!
 I like red because...it's luminous and bright.
 Love hearts are red.
 Red is like...Raspberries!!
 Red can make me feel angry and other times happy.

OCEAN SPA

I saw kids splish splosh splashing in the icy cold pools.
 I saw steam rising allll the way up to the moon.
 I heard drumbeats as loud as a lion roar.
 I heard laughter fill the air as I crept into the boiling hot pool.
 I felt my heart pump with excitement.
 I felt a stream of horror run down my spine as I S-L-O-W-L-Y walked into the deep pool- not just any old deep pool but the deepest pool of all!
 I wondered where the smooth warm water came from.
 I wondered why...I was all wrinkly and I looked like a really old lady.

WHAT IS BLUE?

Blue is the stream whispering into my ear.
 The shimmering sapphire in the beaming sun.
 It is the peppermint ice cream in my mouth.
 Blue is the sadness in everybody.
 I feel the frost bites on my cold fleshy skin.
 I feel the gentle breeze blowing against my face.
 The salty sea crashing roughly on the rocks and swaying on the shore.
 Blue is everywhere in the sky and sea.

ROOM 5

Suddenly, the hooter goes, ZOOM, people whiz past me like a raging stampede. As I ran up the hill, I heard people panting heavily behind me. When I ran along the hill, I felt like collapsing until I heard Mrs Watson say, "Monique is now in 2nd place," over the loud speaker. As I ran down the steep hill for the last time, I could see the finish line coming quickly into view. I ran through the finish line with a sigh of relief. I had come 2nd place and felt very proud.

By Monique Smith

"Holy macaroni cheese", I shouted, when we bounded into the rich red double door. We were at inflatable world on a sunny Saturday. Shouts and screams danced through the air and it drummed in my ears. We, the fantastic four, sprinted to the cool cushion.

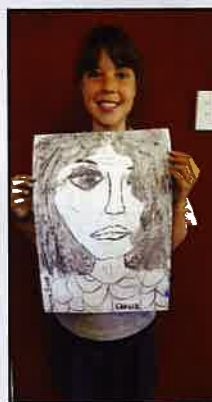

The pillow looked as if it were a giant's sunny marshmallow in a green basket. I bounced off the cushion and landed on a teal boarder, air blew around us like the wind was begging us to go in somewhere? I found the patch, wind sped out like an erupting geyser. I got colder and colder then even colder. Why am I refreshing my face, I whispered to myself?

By Mana Marryatt

I am a leaf. Not that long ago I was green as the grass, then the days got colder and colder and colder. The nights were getting longer. I changed colours. They were red as blood, in the middle with a warm orange edge. When a gust of wind came I was trying to cling on. I was so scared. I twirled and twisted and tumbled slowly. When I landed on a pile of other leaves, I looked up and I saw the trees bare, brown bones. I smelt the fresh grass. I noticed I was on top of Autumn's carpet. My heart was doing a rain dance.

ROOM 6

Green

The Green grass sways around tickling people's legs when they walk past
 Green is the try line box
 of a rugby field, ready for me
 To dive on Green is the little evil tree broccoli
 The green mint leaves unblock
 my nose when I sniff it
 Green is the strips on my rugby jersey
 that I wear proudly every saturday
 Green is the big green leaves danglin'
 of the trees during the summer
 Green paint scatters and slides around the walls and drips
 Green days because of spring

Yellow is a minion saying the word banana to the world.

Yellow is the happy faced emoji of the emoji world.

Yellow is pacman chasing the angry
 ghosts.

Yellow is the hot sun bursting down on us like lava.

Yellow are the flowers blooming when spring is near.

By Jack S and Tyler

Blue is a bucket full of paint dropped by giants that live above the clouds.
 Blue is the frigid ocean.
 Blue makes me feel sad and droopy.
 Blue is the freezing cold air going through my hair, making a shiver run down my spine.
 Blue is the gloomy mid night air.
 Blue is the thing that makes you frozen solid inside and sends goose bumps all over your body.

Blue is a nyanjena showing off it's beautiful petals in your garden.
 Blue is a never ending color that spreads along the sky like butter on your toast.
 Blue is the Smurfs that are none stop running from Gagamel.
 Blue is a erayon that has been smeared all over the wall.
